

We can always get a source set from these

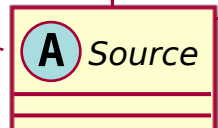

A group of SourceSets, one for each band in an image

A combination of sources which have produced a single-band datum

Base class for sources except for MultiBandSource which is only used in images

Source for single band of an image or non-image value, which actually comes from an Input.

